REFUSED TO WADE THROUGH MUD. Japanese Ladles Coming to Fair Carried From Railroad Wreck. REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Oskaloosa, Ia., April M.—Because six dainty little ladies from the land of the Mikado objected to be rescued from a railroad wreck, traffic on the Central of lowa was almost stopped last night. They declined to get out of their sleepers and walk through the mud, that they might be transferred from one train to another around a landside that had filled a cut, and they had their way.

Near New Staron the silde covered 200 feet of track, stopping the southbound train, in one of the sleepers of which were six Japanese ladles en route to St. Louis to join their husbands, officers in charge of the Japanese exhibit. After much explanation they donned kimonos and stepped out on the platform, drawing back in disgust at the mud. They would not wade through, but they did consent at last to be carried by the men, who, joining hands, two of them to each of the Oriental ladles, carried them around.

Not a speek of mud touched the ladles, who put their arms around the necks of their bearers and did not mind at all. declined to get out of their sleepers and

He bases this opinion on the fact that thousands of the workers on the fact that thousands of the workers at the World's Fair who came to the city for a period of a year or loss are leaving the city as their work here is done.

These persons created an extraordinary demand for small houses and flats, which furnished the excuse for a radial advance in rent rates. Mr. Reeves believes that when a number of people, placed approximately at 19,000, shall have given up their houses and left the city within the ensuing months, that landlords will find it to their advantage to come down to a more reasonable figure in their rates.

This is no doubt due to the precautions taken by the bureau against such practices, so in the list of registered private families and houses having rooms to rent, the prices which the precautions taken by the bureau against such practices, as in the list of registered private families and houses having rooms to rent, the prices which they agreed to charge for the accommodations offered were set down in the book and persons warned that if they went over the published prices they would be blacklisted, and the visiting public warned against their houses.

The prices enumerated in the lists range from 25 cents to 34 a day. The bureau has distributed many thousands of the blue flag, which are to be displayed by those having accommodations for visitors, and Mr. Reeves believes that there will be no lack of rooming facilities for all of the great crowds expected to be here for the opening day of the Fair.

The bureau is preparing a new book containing the names of private families who will keep their homes open for the accommodation of visitors all during the Fair, and this will be issued in the near future. The bureau has also at its service the private canvass made by the public school teachers, for the National Educational Association Convention, as well as that made for the convention of Women's Clubs.

THE FIRSTBORN.

Why is it that the firstborn child is so often the healthiest of a family of children? The reason seems to suggest itself. As child follows child the mother has less and less vitality; often not enough for herself and none, the for her child. Expectant mothers who use Doctor scription find that it keeps them in vigor-ous health. They est well, sleep well and are not nervous. When baby comes its advent is practically painless, and the mother is made happy by the birth of a healthy child. If you would be a healthy mother of healthy children use "Favor-
